THIRD APPEAL FILED IN ROAD DAMAGE ACTION

A third property owner along the re-located Western Maryland railroad line east of here filed an appeal Saturday in Adams county court, taking exception to the findings of the board of viewers' report filed on January 4 and asking that damages be determined in Common Pleas court before a jury.

The new appeal was filed by Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Esq., in behalf of G. Neville Waters, Gettysburg R. 5, who was allowed $2,250 in the report filed January 4. Two other appeals were taken earlier last week—by Mrs. Frank Heverly and Edgar W. Weaver—and the court has granted in each case a rule upon the county commissioners, the Western Maryland railroad and the state highway department, to show cause why the appeals should not be brought into court before a jury. The rules are returnable on February 15.

5 Cases Pending

No action has yet been taken in the five other cases in which viewers' filed reports early last month. The court gave the reports preliminary approval then and unless exceptions are filed by Wednesday of this week, the viewers' reports will be approved finally.

Franklin R. Bigham, Esq., counsel for Mrs. Katherine Tuckey, Wenksville, defendant in the damage action brought by B. Rush Mellett and Nelson E. Mellett, Gettysburg R. 5, which ended in a "hung" jury last week, filed a motion "for judgment (in favor of Mrs. Tuckey) upon the whole record." The motion stated that its presentation followed the court's refusal to give the jury binding instructions and the dismissal of the jury because it failed to agree on a verdict.

A libel in divorce was filed here Saturday by Mrs. Mae Crum Slaybaugh, Aspers, against Arthur Leroy Slaybaugh, Delaware City, Delaware, alleging indignities to the person and cruel and barbarous treatment. A subpoena has been issued and made returnable March 8.

The appointment of the late Robert E. Wible, Esq., as master in the divorce action by George Leroy Himes against Helen Irene (Cutshall) Himes, was revoked by the court and Franklin R. Bigham, Esq., was named in his place.

Asks Bond Forfeiture

Mrs. Constance E. Kinneman, prosecutrix in a desertion and non-support case in court here in February of 1929, presented a petition Saturday through her attorney, John P. Butt, Esq., for the forfeiture of the $500 bond her husband, John Kinneman, Hanover, gave in 1929 to insure weekly support payments that by December 1, 1942, were in arrears $4,172.

The court issued a rule on Kinneman to show cause why the bond should not be forfeited. A hearing is to be held in the case on February 15.

After a hearing the support order against Emmanuel Jeffcoat was reduced to $2 per week. In a similar hearing in the case of Glenn Fidler, now of Baltimore, the defendant's weekly support order was reduced from $15 to $14 per week of which $4 is to be placed in war bonds by Fidler. Fidler was directed to renew his bail for August 28.

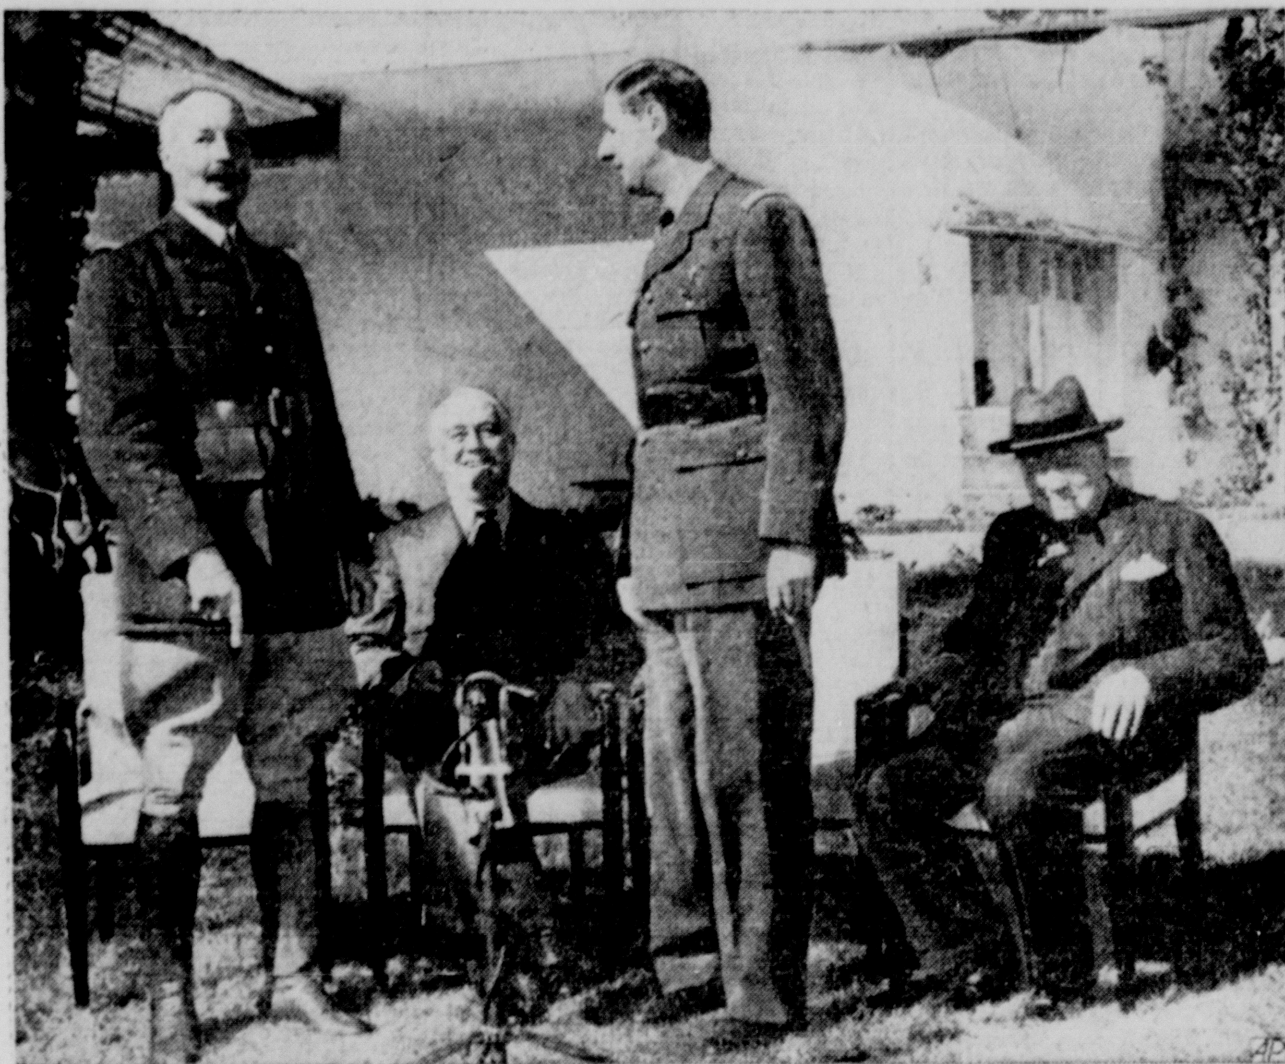

Dallas Carson, Butler township, was sent to jail after his parole was revoked. He failed to comply with conditions of his parole on a larceny case.

No More Pint Milk Bottles

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Milk comes in quarts, starting today, and the dealers are required to collect a deposit on the bottles.

No more pints or half pints for home or retail store delivery, under an order by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard. The idea is to save bottles, manpower and delivery equipment so that distributors can pay dairy farmers more, where necessary, without increasing the consumer price.

PASTOR LEAVES ON WEDNESDAY

The Rev. Seth C. Morrow, who has resigned the pastorate of the local Presbyterian church to accept a unanimous call to the First Presbyterian church of Pottsville, will move from Gettysburg on Wednesday with Mrs. Morrow and their daughter, Elizabeth Stewart Morrow.

The Rev. Mr. Morrow delivered his final sermon in the church here on Sunday. Communion was observed at the morning service and in the evening he repeated the first sermon he delivered in the local pulpit on March 6, 1938, when he came here as a senior at Princeton Theological seminary. The sermon theme was "Turning Back to God."

First steps toward securing a successor to the Rev. Mr. Morrow will be taken at a meeting of the church session on Thursday evening. The Rev. W. H. Galbreath, Shippensburg, moderator of the Carlisle Presbytery, will attend the meeting.

The local church bulletin on Sunday gave this summary of church statistics during the four years and eight months of the Morrow pastorate: Church building debt reduced from $10,842 to $4,288; 129 new members received changing the total communicant membership of the church from 484 to 516; 45 baptisms performed, and 30 funerals of church members conducted.

At the Sunday morning service these new members were received: Mrs. Doris Rummel, Paul Gelwicks, Sydney Poppay and Harry Scott.

104 Leave For Army Service

Draft Board No. 2 sent 104 men and youths in the late teens to Harrisburg this morning for final physical examinations and induction into the U. S. Army to fill this district's February quota. The group included 34 volunteers and the first high school and college students drafted here since the Selective Service went into force.

Originally 108 men were slated to go but three cases were re-opened. One man, Rodney W. Smith, North Stratton street, failed to report this morning. Four buses carried the men to Harrisburg, leaving here at 7 o'clock.

On Tuesday morning, Draft Board No. 1 at New Oxford will send 48 men—more than 30 of them aged 18, 19 and 20 years—to Harrisburg for their final physical checkups.

A marriage license was issued here Saturday to Donald Clarence Sheely, son of Mr. and Mrs. David J. A. Sheely, New Oxford, and Virginia Orndorff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Orndorff, Littlestown.

More Blood Donors And Volunteer Workers Needed

Registration of additional blood donors for future visits here of the Red Cross doctors and nurses from Harrisburg continued today at Lippy's store and at the Red Cross office in the court house. County chapter officials called attention to the huge tasks to which the Red Cross has been assigned and in which the Adams county chapter is taking an active part.

Last Friday 102 pints of blood were received here to help meet minimum Army and Navy requirements of 70,000 pints per week during this year. At least 4,000,000 pints of blood will be needed this year and if a major invasion of Axis territory is undertaken the requirements will rise the Red Cross has been advised.

Volunteers here have been working since late last fall on the folding and packing of surgical dressings for the use of the Army and Navy. The Red Cross has been asked to make 90 per cent of all the surgical dressings needed by the armed services. The National Red Cross is asked to make 500,000 surgical dressings per hour "indefinitely." The need is so urgent that chapters are directed to make shipments as rapidly as eight boxes of dressings are completed. Each box contains 9,000 dressings.

More volunteer helpers are needed by the county chapter and additional space is being sought. Work room quarters in the Red Cross building on East High street are becoming too crowded to handle the great volume of work required.

The Red Cross is also assigned the task of recruiting nurses for duty with the armed forces and at the same time to stress the importance of nurses' aide and home nursing training for civilians as a means of relieving the emergency due to the removal of so many trained nurses from civilian service. Information for prospective Red Cross nurses is available locally at the Red Cross office.

Miss Kathryn Poist, New Oxford, Miss Marie Shrader, Berlin Junction, Miss Anne Elizabeth Roth, McSherrystown and Miss Eugenia E. Rutters, McSherrystown, left this morning for Fort Oglethorpe, Georgia, where they will receive basic training in the WAACs. After a four weeks course of training at Oglethorpe they will be assigned to permanent stations.

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock "WAAC Night" will be observed at the court house under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary of the Albert J. Lentz American Legion Post.

DIRECTORS' MEETING

A regular meeting of the board of directors of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Chamber offices in the Kadel building.

DIRECTORS OF SCHOOLS MEET IN CONVENTION

Postponed from last Friday because of the snow storm, the fifty-second annual convention of the Adams County School Directors' association is being held in the Littlestown high school building today with about 100 directors in attendance. "School Activities in War Time" is the convention theme.

The opening devotions were conducted by the Rev. Charles M. Coffelt, a director from Highland township. The directors were formally welcomed by Raymond M. Baugher, New Oxford, president of the county board of school directors, who presided at this morning's session.

The cooperation given Adams county farmers and fruitmen last fall by the school authorities in freeing high school and upper grade children for harvest work was lauded by Dr. H. C. Fetterolf, chief of agricultural education in the state department of public instruction at Harrisburg, in the first address of the convention. His theme was "Our Agricultural Schools in the War Effort."

Many Courses Available

Doctor Fetterolf told the convention there are 319 courses in 19 different fields of work for training boys in defense-connected work. Many of them are in farm machinery repair and in dairy production. He praised agriculture students in the high schools for their cooperation in the move to increase production of "food for freedom" and said much is being accomplished in this connection by the farm-home projects conducted in connection with the agriculture course in school. He spoke highly of the work of Future Farmers of America throughout the state in aiding the salvage campaign.

Finally, he urged community canning of fruits and vegetables for use in school lunches and in the homes with the home economics departments taking the lead in setting up the program.

"School Transportation in War Time" was discussed by Dr. Raymond W. Robinson, chief of consolidation and transportation in the state Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg. He was the last speaker this morning.

School Buses

Declaring that transportation may be the deciding factor in the winning of the war, Doctor Robinson reviewed school transportation problems brought about by the war effort. Three hundred thousand boys and girls in this state ride to school daily by bus, he said. There are 1,100 school bus passengers in Adams county.

The shortage of materials and the urgent need by the armed forces for trucks explain why many children in this state are traveling daily in "death traps," he said. He told the schoolmen that 1,300 school buses in use today do not meet state specifications but are being used because no better equipment is available.

He said legislation restricts carrying buses to the single job of carrying pupils to and from school. He explained a three-page questionnaire which soon will have to be completed by school districts to gain an extension of their Certificates of War Necessity on their buses.

The directors dined at noon today in the social rooms of St. John's Lutheran church with County Superintendent (Please Turn to Page 2)

EDITOR-OWNER EMMITSBURG PAPER EXPIRES

John D. Elder, 57, editor and publisher of the Emmitsburg Chronicle, died Saturday evening in St. Agnes hospital, Baltimore, from a heart attack.

The deceased was born in Emmitsburg September 19, 1885, a direct descendant of William H. Elder who migrated to this country from England in 1728 to found one of the oldest families in western Maryland. Mr. Elder was a life-long Democrat and was well-known throughout Maryland. He was a member of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, and a former member of the Knights of Columbus and the Lions club. He was a member of the Holy Name society.

Although in failing health for the last five years, Mr. Elder had continued publishing the weekly paper which he purchased in December, 1922, after going to Emmitsburg in 1921, following a career with the Pittsburgh Press. The paper has been published continuously since 1876.

Funeral Wednesday

As president of the board of Emmitsburg commissioners he served as mayor of Emmitsburg in 1940 following the death of Michael J. Thompson. During his term the modern sewage system was completed in Emmitsburg. Mr. Elder was a member of the Emmitsburg volunteer fire company and for many years was prominent in community and charity enterprises.

Surviving are his widow, the former Genevieve Spalding; seven children, Mrs. Genevieve R. Smith, Emmitsburg; Mrs. Otto C. Weyand, Silver Spring, Maryland; Miss Joan Dora Elder, Washington, D. C.; John C. J. Earl, Charles Arthur, and Lawrence Elder, all of Pittsburgh; three sisters, Mrs. Alfred LePore, Laurel, Maryland; Mrs. Hazel Halm and Mrs. Bernard Ott, both of Emmitsburg; one brother, Joseph E. Elder, Emmitsburg, and eight grandchildren.

Funeral services Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

URGES SAVING OF TIN CANS

Adams county housewives are being urged to put the "tin soldiers" in their kitchens into service. The "tin soldiers" are the empty food cans that have been discarded.

Today O. H. Benson, county salvage chairman, gave these instructions on the preparation of the cans for use in the salvage campaign:

"Wash every food can thoroughly and remove the labels. Cut off the top and bottom with your can opener and insert in cans. Then flatten the can with your foot. Step heavily on the can but do not hammer it. Pack the cans, ready for collection. The collection dates will be announced later.

"Do not use tin cans which have been oiled, waxed or greased. Store the flattened cans in a box and keep them in a dry place until collection day. Do not place the cans in barrels outside of stories and other business places. These barrels are for metal, rubber, locks, keys and many other small objects such as flatirons, household rubber articles, nails, bolts, brass, copper, lead, zinc, aluminum and hundreds of other household and shop articles."

"Army Of Dead" 330,000 Strong Wasted In Trap

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press War Editor

The Russians were delivering their last death blows today to the half-frozen, starving, desperate remnant of the mighty army which Hitler sacrificed at Stalingrad.

Relentless attacks added another 900 or more dead and others captured to the toll which the Russians placed officially at 240,000 killed and 46,000 taken prisoner in the bloodiest trap of the war.

"Army Of The Dead"

And in their own broadcasts—from the Berlin radio which last fall triumphantly proclaimed Stalingrad captured—the Germans sounded a requiem of praise to "the heroes of Stalingrad" . . . "the army of the dead."

On the North African front a German armored column, composed of units which won fame in Poland and France, was checked after a six mile drive through Faid Pass and on toward Sidi Bouzid, 75 miles west of Sfax, but the thrust was regarded as primarily defensive.

Allied observers said it was intended apparently to help hold a coastal corridor for Marshal Rommel's withdrawal, and to break into Allied preparations for a sustained, show-down offensive.

The British Eighth army, meanwhile, announced the occupation of Zuara, 65 miles west of Tripoli, and pushed steadily westward in contact with Rommel's rear guard.

One-Sided Jap Yarn

The Japanese radio was conjuring up a one-sided story of a new air-sea battle off the southern Solomon islands in which the Tokyo Navy minister, Admiral Shigetaro Shimada, said Japanese planes sank two battleships and three cruisers and damaged another battleship and cruiser.

There was no confirmation from any other source that such an engagement had taken place, and the Japanese version, which acknowledged the loss of ten planes, made no mention of any Japanese surface forces involved.

Shimada said the fight occurred last Friday and Saturday west of Rennell island, less than 100 miles south of Guadalcanal.

C.E. TO MARK ANNIVERSARY THIS EVENING

"Freedom's Sure Foundation" will be the theme of Adams county's celebration of the 62nd anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor to be held tonight in the Gettysburg United Brethren church. The service is scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

Dean Stover, president of the county union will be the presiding officer. The meeting will open with a song service conducted by Dale Roth of the Biglerville United Brethren society. This will be followed by a devotional service under the direction of the Gettysburg United Brethren society. Special music will be directed by Lois Yealy of the St. John's Lutheran society, Littlestown.

The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Richard Drummond of the local seminary.

Announcements concerning the spring activities of the county union and the standing of the societies in the county contest will be made. Society presidents are requested to bring the number of points they have won, turning them in to Charles Lott before the meeting.

The Rev. Harold O. Sipe, Biglerville, will conduct a friendship circle as the closing exercises.

Mrs. Martin Walter is chairman of the committee planning the observance. She is being assisted by Mrs. Claude Miller and Dorothy Routsong.

The Christian Endeavor organization was founded February 2, 1881 in Williston Congregational church, Portland, Maine, by Dr. Francis Clark. Since then its growth has been world-wide and rapid, with over 80,000 societies. Since the outbreak of the war hundreds of Christian Endeavor units have been established in Army camps and on Navy ships.

In Russia and Africa the cost of defeats was heavy upon German, Rumanian and Italian commanders.

Capture Big Shots

The Russians announced the capture at Stalingrad of Field Marshal Friedrich Paulus, commander in chief of the Sixth German Army, who was raised in rank from colonel general only yesterday by Hitler himself.

Along with this first captured German field marshal of the war, the Russians announced taking prisoner 13 other German generals and two Rumanian generals.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces pushed past the Tripolitanian border into Tunisia, and the last shred of Italy's African empire was gone.

The capture of Zuara put the British within 35 miles of the Tunisian border, and the Morocco radio reported that the Eighth Army had crossed the frontier on the coastal road beyond the town.

Stop Nazi Thrust

Dispatches from the western Tunisian battlefield said the fiercest fighting of the campaign developed as Allied reinforcements halted the Germans after their thrust through French defenses at Faid Pass, some 60 miles inland from the port of Sfax.

A French communique said the Allied forces destroyed a considerable number of tanks of the force believed to include units of the veteran 10th Panzer Division.

American fighters and bombers, helping nail down the attack, were said to have left at least 12 German tanks and a number of trucks ablaze in the pass.

Allied airmen striking from the east continued to batter Axis air-dromes in Sicily and shipping off the Tunisian coast.

Execute 11 Spies

The French in north Africa announced the execution of 11 Axis parachutist spies, caught wearing civilian clothes behind Allied lines, and the execution of two Arabs convicted of aiding them.

The Russians, announcing the scope of the catastrophe to German arms at Stalingrad, said 330,000 of (Please Turn to Page 5)

330,000 NAZIS SACRIFICED FOR HITLER'S PRIDE

By GLENN BABB

The German disaster at Stalingrad is even greater than had been supposed. Berlin's accounts as well as Moscow's emphasize that the end is at hand for the "army of the dead," which, it is now disclosed, numbered 330,000 men instead of the earlier Russian estimate of 220,000. A third of a million men have been sacrificed, largely to Adolf Hitler's pride. It seems clear that had he not been so loath to abandon the prize which he boasted last September was as good as won and would be held forever there would have been ample opportunity for the withdrawal of the Sixth Army from its precarious salient before the Russian counter offensive was launched.

Worst German Loss

The German high command shows little desire to gloss over the tragedy. In fact it appears that Berlin is using it to drive home the propaganda of gloom with which it is trying to convince the German people that they must fight now for survival. That last minute promotion of General Paulus, the Sixth Army's commander, to the rank of field marshal, seems to have been calculated to emphasize the extent of the catastrophe.

The loss of a field marshal as a prisoner of war is without precedent in the military history of the modern German Reich. So is the loss of an entire army. The German debacle of 1918 produced nothing similar. It remains to be seen whether the effect on the morale of the German nation will be that apparently sought by the high command's lugubrious announcements, a stiffening of resolve and a readiness to sacrifice everything for the Fuehrer.

Suicide Stand

It remains to be seen also whether the Sixth Army's suicide stand will produce the strategic results the Germans are claiming for it. Obviously in its later stages it sought to prevent the Red Army from putting its full power into the drive for Rostov and Gherby and give time for the withdrawal of the Axis Armies in the Caucasus. That withdrawal has not been completed, but it does appear that the way has been held open for the bulk of those armies. Perhaps a quarter million men remain in the Krasnodar area and they may not be able to escape by way of Rostov, especially now that Tikhoretsk has fallen. They may be pinned back on the sea of Azov coast within a few days, with only a choice of attempting the perilous passage of the Kerch strait to the Crimea or a last stand like that of their comrades at Stalingrad.

Full Story Untold

Stalingrad and the Caucasus may not be the full tale of disaster for the German Army. The Russians have achieved another huge encirclement west of Voronezh which bids fair to add another 100,000 troops to the grim total of Hitler's losses. That total for the last few months is rapidly approaching the million mark and while the Russian Army suffered on a like scale in the summers of 1941 and 1942 it is doubtful whether Hitler can muster the tremendous reserves of power which the Red Army was able to summon when the hour came for its counterstroke. The Berlin propaganda machine will work the theme of the Bolshevik menace to the limit, Hitler and Goering having given the key in their somber messages of Saturday's anniversary, but whether Germany and her subject states have the reserves of manpower and courage necessary to reverse the tide of the war remains a question.

FLYNN'S NAME IS WITHDRAWN

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt told Edward J. Flynn today he was complying reluctantly with a request to withdraw Flynn's nomination to be United States minister to Australia.

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—A row on the Senate floor over confirmation of President Roosevelt's appointment of Edward J. Flynn as minister to Australia apparently has been averted.

Flynn, former Democratic National committee chairman, disclosed last night he was asking the President to withdraw his nomination for the post.

While asserting he had been assured by friends in the Senate that he would be confirmed, the gray-haired Bronx political leader said he was "unwilling to permit my candidacy to be made the excuse for a partisan political debate."

Flynn's decision to retire, made in the face of defections by several Senate Democrats who announced they would join Republicans in opposing him, represents the first major setback for the Administration in the new Congress.

Speculation on other possibilities for the post immediately centered on Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan. Whether Grew, who returned to this country in an exchange ship last August, would want to accept a ministerial appointment was not known, but it was recalled that Flynn said the job also would entail the duties of a roving ambassador in the southwest Pacific.

GERMANY PINS HOPE ON SUBS

London, Feb. 1 (AP)—Germany menaced the Allies today with the threat of a greater submarine war, backed by the total power of the Nazi Navy.

Her warning of what the Allies were expecting, a desperate effort to win the war by an all-out campaign against Allied supply lines, came with the week-end elevation of Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz to commander-in-chief of the German Navy.

Doenitz, originator of the "wolf pack" attacks by U-boats against Allied convoys, succeeded Grand Admiral Erich Raeder who, it was reported, would become Adolf Hitler's "first adviser of Naval affairs." Such all-out challenge to Allied seapower has been forecast for many weeks.

A double tunnel type dehydrator for the dehydration of apples, according to government specification has been installed at the C. H. Musselman-canning plant, Biglerville. The dehydrator, of a type which was developed and has been in use on the western coast, is in charge of J. Willis Beidler, head chemist at the plant. It has an estimated capacity of 40 tons of raw fruit per day.

J. D. Miller, cashier at the Biglerville National bank, addressed the farm shop class at Biglerville high school this morning on "Financing the Farm."

NEW RULING ON REGISTRATION OF USED CAR TIRES

Attempting to clarify confusion said to be surrounding the matter of the registration of tires on dealer's stocks of new and used automobiles, the auto rationing office in the Harrisburg office has issued this memorandum to local boards:

"Tires on new automobiles and used cars in dealer's stocks are not to be registered on Form R-334 unless a basic ration book has been issued for that car. In other words, any car that has been issued a basic gasoline ration book must have the tires registered on Form R-534. When the dealer sells a new car from his stock, the purchaser will present to his local board a list of the serial number of the tires on that car, and then will be issued to him a new R-534 Tire Inspection Record.

"Where a dealer sells a used car, the purchaser will apply to his local board, taking with him the old R-534 form which was originally issued for that car, and was turned in to the car dealer at the time he took possession of the car. The local board will then issue to the new owner of the used car, a new R-534 Tire Inspection Record.

FUEL OIL UNITS ARE CUT AGAIN

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Fuel oil consumers in six northeastern states, which have had some of the nation's most severe weather of the winter, were on further restricted rations today due to an acute supply shortage.

The cut, effective last Saturday midnight, was announced by the Office of Price Administration and applies to Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York except for the Adirondack area.

The No. 4 fuel oil ration coupons in those states now are worth eight gallons each to householders and 80 gallons to commercial consumers. A few weeks ago the ration for the six states was reduced from 10 and 100 gallons to nine and 90 gallons, respectively.

MONTH'S SALES $508.50

During January $171 in war stamps and $337.50 in war bonds were purchased at the Fairfield post office according to a report by G. M. Neely, postmaster.

Bicycle Quota Increased Here

A slight increase in the quota of bicycles for rationing in February, which has been allotted by OPA reflects recently announced additions to the list of persons eligible for certificates authorizing purchase of the machines.

The February quota of 85,700 bicycles compares with 85,000 for January. In addition the state reserves which are set up to meet any requirements that may develop in excess of quota have been increased from 25,500 in January to 32,900 in February. Most of this increase has been assigned to the 17 eastern states where cuts in gasoline rations have curbed the use of automobiles.

In areas where the gasoline cuts are in effect, the expanded eligibility makes it possible for anyone gainfully employed or doing volunteer work essential to the War Program or Public Welfare to qualify for a bicycle by showing need for one in his work or in getting to and from work. Moreover, school pupils in all parts of the country have been made eligible and can get authority to buy bicycles by showing need for them in going between home and school.

FLYING MATCH HEAD BRINGS DEATH TO 29

By JIM THOMAS

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 1 (AP)—A match head flying from the hands of a stove repairman started flash flames surging through the frame structure of a suburban sanatorium and brought death to at least 29 persons in the worst disaster of its kind this area ever has known.

Twenty-eight bodies have been recovered from the mucky ruin that was a refuge for old age pensioners, aged ill and a few mental cases. One other inmate died in a hospital and 17 were under treatment today for burns.

Three of the 49 patients reported in the building when the fire began were unaccounted for, and officials feared they, too, were dead.

The first tongues of fire licked at a lower floor of the Lake Forest Park sanatorium shortly after noon yesterday.

Many Are Trapped

Almost in a matter of seconds the entire structure, privately operated by Miss Marjorie Westberg, was a mass of flame.

The repairman, M. R. Baird, told Prosecuting Attorney Lloyd P. Shortt, that as he finished his task of connecting an outside tank to an oil heater, he lit a match. The head flew off, he said, landing in a pile of waste near the heater.

Many of the aged were trapped in their beds. Some had fallen against doors and beneath windows as they sought to flee.

Rural Fire Commissioner Leo McCombs said the sanatorium, built by extending a frame addition from an old log house, had but three doors from which escape was possible.

"I knew something like this would happen," he said.

Most of those saved were taken from the building by Jack Mullen, who lived just across the street, his 12-year-old daughter, Barbara, and his wife's uncle, Lou Monroe. Flames drove them back before more than a few could be reached.

KNOX PREDICTS MORE BOMBINGS OF JAP CAPITAL

San Diego, Calif., Feb. 1 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox has returned from an inspection of far-flung Pacific outposts with the predictions that "there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo" and that "within the next 30 days all organized resistance on Guadalcanal will disappear."

The secretary, who stopped here briefly yesterday en route back to Washington on his 20,000-mile inspection trip, twice within the past two weeks was under Japanese air attack. The first attack was a short one at Espritu Santo in the New Hebrides and the second, a much heavier one of seven hour duration, was on Guadalcanal. No casualties were reported in either attack.

With Secretary Knox during the attacks were Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, and Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the south Pacific force.

Just Begun to Fight

"I think there are darn good prospects of an air attack on Tokyo," the secretary said at Pearl Harbor just before flying here. "But when or how it will hit I will not say, but they better get ready."

"I think the Japs will fight a tough, hard persistent war. I will not discuss strategy but will say we have just begun to fight and haven't hit our hardest blows yet."

Allied Leaders Map War Plans

Furrowed brows and grim-set jaws marked the faces of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill as they talked in conference at Casablanca, French Morocco, in what has become known as the "unconditional surrender" parley. Their talks lasted 10 days.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE DIVINITY OF USE

What the chemist has done to advance civilization and bring both health and happiness into the world is beyond all computation. And every day something new and useful is being revealed.The commonest weeds that we have for years trod under our feet, or passed with disdainful note, are now appearing as our saviors in a multitude of forms. Nothing on all this wonderful earth is absolutely valueless. No one can talk for long with a Kettering, a Henry Ford, a Henry Kaiser, or a Fred
Zeidler, and walk away a pessimist!
They see in a multitude of neglected things a divinity of use.The cycle of plastics is hardly upon us and their development is certain to amaze the world. Many of the most valuable of materials that have served us for long, are now being retired, to be replaced with others of even greater efficiency. Dire emergencies compel people to think as they never have before—and constructively.Before this tragic war is over, and a new world organized, we are going to look upon many a thing of past usefulness as only a memory, and many a new thing as something approaching the miraculous!
It doesn't seem so very long ago that I went to the town store for a can of kerosene for the lamps in our home—but Mr. Edison put an end to all that!An endless number of materials still lie in the earth undiscovered, yet immense with possibilities for use. The scientist, the investigator, the inventor, the creative research chemist, now face a Dawn such as Time has never looked upon. These people think and work in terms of usefulness—somehow or other feeling the divinity of their service.There is a use for everything ever created. Scattered everywhere, and perhaps in the very air, are an uncountable number of mysteries yet to be solved—then to be harnessed into their many elements for the use and benefit of all mankind.Destructive as man is with all his free gifts from Nature, still is she lavish beyond all imagination—giving up her treasures as she hopes for his rebirth into spiritual stature and grandeur.Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Happy Land"

now in running order, and seems to keep good time. After the clock had been put in place, and every-a series of resolutions adopted. Robert D. Armor has been appointed by the council to wind the clock for

A. Boyd Hamilton

TAKES PLACE
OF DR. MARTS
WHO RESIGNED

By WICK TEMPLE

Harrisburg, Feb. 1 (AP)—Likeable Arthur Boyd Hamilton stepped into the forefront of Pennsylvania's governmental operations today after more than a score of years of active service behind the scenes.The veteran newspaperman and secretary extraordinary became acting director of the state Defense Council to plug a gap caused by resignation of Dr. A. C. Marts to accept a captaincy in the United States Coast Guard.Governor Martin designated Hamilton for the $10,000 post pending council selection of Dr. Marts successor. A confidant of the governor, Boyd is expected to stay with the council or get some other major job.He has been secretary of the Civilian Protection system since its creation in 1941 and in Dr. Marts' own words has been "of inestimable value" in preparing the populace for the emergency.Hard Worker
"He is one of the hardest working men I've known," declared Dr.
Marts. "He keeps going day and night, week in week out. His almost encyclopedic knowledge of the state and of the people has been of Great help.""He's forthright in the way he meets every problem and very refreshing in his personal reactions and his keen sense of humor. Everything he has done has been from the standpoint of a good citizen without regard to partisanship."A native of Harrisburg, which his forefathers helped to found, the 67-year-old Hamilton was city editor of the Patriot here before he was 21, served as correspondent in Spanish-American war camps and for years reported capitol affairs and political happenings, including the 1906 dedication of the state house and 10 national party conventions.
He was also associated with the Harrisburg Telegraph.He became secretary to Governor John S. Fisher in 1927, was assistant to Governor Martin during his chairmanship of the Republican State committee from 1928 to 1934 and then spent three years as secretary of the state Senate.

if the taxpayer is using the cash basis, Form 1040F, "Schedule of Farm Income and Expenses" is required to be filled out and filed along with Form 1040. Use of Form 1040F is optional in the case of

WRECKED NAVY PLANE IS LOST WITH 19 LIVES

Ukiah, Calif., Feb. 1 (AP)—Shattered and burned almost beyond recognition, the wreckage of a naval transport plane lost with 19 aboard on a flight from Pearl Harbor to San Francisco, was found yesterday at the foot of a cliff in Southern Mendocino county.

It crashed there, in a wild mountainous region, 100 miles north of San Francisco, during a storm on January 21.

"There were no survivors," the Navy said.

For the Navy, it was a heavy loss—ten officers, including Rear Admiral Robert H. English, commander of the Pacific fleet submarine force, and three naval captains.

Nine Civilians
The other nine victims were civilian personnel operating the great, four-motored seaplane. Bodies were brought out on pack horses, and in Army jeeps. It was a 7-mile trip through roadless brush land to the highway.

Among the first bodies identified were those of Admiral English and of the only woman aboard, Navy Lieut. (JG) Edna Oweila Morrow, a nurse, of Pasadena, California.

The locale of the crash indicated that the pilot of the transport had tried to fly to Clear Lake, a fresh-water emergency landing place 125 miles north of San Francisco, when he was unable to land on San Francisco bay because of weather conditions.

FDR IS HOME FROM AFRICA

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Washington, Feb. 1 (AP)—Back from the most spectacular and hazardous trip ever undertaken by an American Chief Executive, President Roosevelt set out today to translate into action the win-the-war plans evolved at his epic north African meeting with Winston Churchill.

Mr. Roosevelt returned to the capital last night, completing the last lap of his journey by train. After conferences with Secretaries Hull, Stimson and Knox, War Production Chairman Donald M. Nelson, and other topflight advisers, he is expected to take the steps necessary on the diplomatic, military and home fronts to put into effect the commitments made at Casablanca.

It was just seven days after the Casablanca conference ended that the President returned to the White House. Twenty-two days have elapsed since he left here and became the first President ever to fly in a plane, to cross the sea, or set foot on foreign soil while the nation was at war.

In the interim, he and Churchill, with the assistance of their highest Army and Navy leaders, worked out for 1943 a war strategy directed toward exacting unconditional surrender from the Axis.

"Army Of Dead"

The enemy had been trapped instead of 220,000 as they had reported earlier.

Of these, according to the Russian count, barely 43,000 remained, and their fate seemed sealed.

New gains were announced along virtually the whole southern Russian front, where the Germans have been thrust back almost to their line of a year ago everywhere but in the Rostov sector and in the extreme northwestern Caucasus.

New Sub Chief

Even there the Germans were being rolled steadily back toward the sea of Azov and the Strait of Kerch as the Russians reported the recapture of still more towns.

The Allies braced to meet the rising menace of German under-sea war, the only phase of the fight in which the Axis still holds the offensive.

In warning of the all-out bid to break Allied ship supply lines, Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, "wolf pack" U-boat attack originator, was placed in full command of the German Navy.

JOIN RESERVE

Pittsburgh, Feb. 1 (AP)—The U. S. Naval Reserve acquired two new lieutenants (J.G.) yesterday—Philip M. Snider of Huntington, director of athletics at Juniata college, and Edward H. Gubbon, coach at California (Pa.) Teachers' college.

Problem of the WIRE CAGE

BY JOHN DICKSON CARR

Chapter Eight

Frank struck a match. The flame, which looked large in that little space, showed a copy of that morning's Daily Floodlight, a tabloid of the sensational variety.

"It certainly wasn't here three-quarters of an hour ago," said Kitty, who loved worrying about such small points. "Frank will tell you that. Do you think there are tramps or thieves about?"

Nothing interested Brenda less at the moment. Hugh saw with sudden concern that her face was white.

"Thieves? I shouldn't think so," she answered, showing a sort of desperate interest in the new topic. "There's nothing to steal. I've got a spare pair of tennis shoes and a few odds and ends in one of the lockers, that's all. And then there's that, of course. But it wouldn't interest a thief."

She nodded towards a battered object in one corner, which they saw just before the match went out. It was a picnic-hamper in leather, like a very large and very heavy suitcase; now neglected and beginning to be spotted with mould. Frank kicked at it, and it gave out a rattle of china. Kitty uttered a cry of dismay.

"Brenda, you ought to be ashamed of yourself! That lovely hamper, and all the wonderful china inside. It's been here since that picnic of our last year, and it's rotting. Why don't you take it up to the house?" "I will," said Brenda. "Today, Maria's been after me about that china too. I solemnly promise,"—her voice was going up—"Will that satisfy you?"

Kitty's tone changed.

"Sorry to be such a nuisance, Brenda. But it is a worrying thing about that newspaper, isn't it? How could it have got here? Strike another match, Frank." She read the headline about idly "PRETTY SHOP-GIRL GASSED IN FLAT. Why do they print such things?" "Because people like 'em, old girl," said Frank coolly. "That is, if they put a bit of ginger into it. You know the sort of rot. Every typist or shop-girl is pretty, every bed-sitting-room is a flat—"

"But she is pretty," argued Kitty. "Look at the picture here. 'Madge Sturgess.' Don't you think so, Frank?"

Frank glanced at the picture before the match went out. "Not bad. Silly little fool, though. She didn't die. Attempting suicide is a felony, and now she'll be in trouble with the police, and serve her right."

Without knowing why, Hugh felt a new turn had come into the conversation. There had been an edge in Frank's voice, a kind of subdued triumph. Hugh had shut the door. In spite of themselves, they were all closed into this musty little shed and crowded into intimacy.

"I'm interested in things like that," Frank continued. "Murders and suicides and whatnot. Murder is more interesting anyway." (Hugh had a feeling that even in the dark his eyes were gleaming with amusement.) "I say, here's a game for a rainy afternoon! We'll put it up to everybody in turn, including our criminological expert—"

"Our criminological expert?" inquired Kitty.

"Rowland. Didn't you know?" Hugh was conscious of Kitty as an apologetic weight close beside him, flashing white teeth. "I'm afraid I didn't."

"Oh, yes. Ask Brenda. Though he's always been very modest in front of me, and I won't say it was because he didn't want to get the raspberry. However, here's the problem. No rotting, now. Suppose you actually were going to commit a murder—how would you do it?"

He held up one finger.

"Wait! Stop a bit. This is to be the real thing and no rot. Not one of these mathematical 'perfect crime' things. I asked Nick the same question once. He got all excited and worked out something that may have been an absolutely wizard scheme; all about a perfect alibi: only it was so complicated that no murderer would ever be able to remember half of what he was supposed to do. When I told him so, he got very shy and said I had no artistic sense. Well, so I haven't. This isn't to be some eyewash out of books. This is to be real. And practical. You're really going to murder somebody—how do you do it? You first, Rowland."

"Do you honestly want to know that," said Hugh, "or is this another have?"

Frank appeared to grin. "I don't give a hang, old boy," he admitted with candor. "Nothing interests me less, really. Only it's one way of passing a rainy afternoon, and I'd rather like to hear how you deal with it."

(He had now only a comparatively short time to live.)

"I suppose it's morbid to talk about it," put in Kitty, with a sort of hesitant relish and in a low voice which added a greater feeling of intimacy to the proceedings. "But it is interesting, isn't it?"

"Very," said Hugh.

"I should use carbon monoxide gas," Kitty went on, as though musing. "You know: the gas in a motor-exhaust. You get the victim drunk and shut him up in the garage with the motor running, and the gas from the exhaust roes it like winking. It's painless, and not messy."

"I say, Kitty," observed Frank. "How did your husband die?"

The ensuing pause could not be called a silence, due to the din of rain on the roof. Frank continued with his usual engaging charm and candor.

"I mean, we don't really know anything about you, do we? We know you came here, and took a house round the corner, and keep wire-haired terriers, and make yourself pleasant to everybody, and seem to be well off. But that's all. You never speak of your late governor. How did he die?"

"He died in the way I've been describing," answered Kitty. "As a matter of fact, I was accused of having killed him. But they never proved anything. When I heard a little while ago that there was a Scotland Yard detective here, I was secretly horribly worried for fear they'd found new evidence even after three years."

The utter and appaled shock caused by those words seemed to be felt most of all by Frank himself.

Lightning lit the inside of the shed with fiery intensity. They were all looking at Kitty. She had drawn her sweater across her shoulders, and was pushing back her hair.

Then, delightedly, she burst out laughing.

"You know, you are young," Kitty said. "That's how you show it—for a second I think you almost believed me."

Frank sat up. "You mean it's not—?"

"Of course it's not true, you young imp. My husband was a very worthy Canadian, twice my age, who died of flu in Winnipeg. I've never said much about him because he was rather a rough diamond who wouldn't have interested you, though I was very fond of him. But I couldn't resist puncturing you."

"Dash it all, I'm not so sure! There was something in the way you looked—just for a second—"

Again Kitty laughed. "Well, if you must read secrets into my dark past," she said, "that will do to start with. And if you really think I'm a murderer, you must be very careful about walking home with me. Though I'm going to insist you do that, you young villain, and you know why. But you don't think I'm a murderer, do you?"

"No; but you oughtn't to talk like that, old girl."

"Frank, you're worried about something."

"Rot."

"Yes, you are," said Kitty very quietly. "You've been worried about something ever since we came in here and started this nice eerie chat. What is it?"

"Stop talking such utter bilge!" Kitty was still quiet. "If you won't you won't. Anyhow, this is interesting, about the murders, I mean. You've been very quiet up to now, Brenda. You haven't said a word. How would you commit a murder, if you'd made up your mind to do it?"

"Oh, I've got it all worked out," said Brenda. "I know the perfect method."

Hints Education For Older Persons

Haverford, Pa., Feb. 1 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, war mailpower commissioner, believes small colleges might offer instruction for older men and women who through no fault of their own have never enjoyed college educational advantages.

Speaking at commencement exercises at Haverford college Saturday night McNutt also suggested colleges might arrange special rehabilitation courses for those invalidated out of military service.

"If the colleges believe in democracy," he said, "this is their opportunity to prove it. The War Manpower commission will do all that lies within its power to assist

Lebanon Valley Quintet Upsets Bullet Cagers 44-43

DUTCHMEN TOSS 14 FREE SHOTS TO SCORE WIN

Coach "Hen" Bream's Gettysburg college basketball team received an unexpected setback Saturday evening when Lebanon Valley got sweet revenge for a defeat suffered here earlier in the season by squeezing out a 44-43 decision.

The game was played on the small Annville high school court which undoubtedly affected the play of the Bullets who prefer large playing space.

A foul goal by Denlin broke a 43-43 tie with two minutes of play remaining and neither team could score after that while play was hotly waged.

Cal Welliver, who led the Bullets in scoring with a dozen points, went out of action in the third period after four personal fouls and his loss was keenly felt in the final round.

After playing to a 13-13 deadlock in the first period the Bullets appeared headed for victory when they piled up a 28-20 margin at half time.

The Dutchmen came back strong in the third quarter and cut Gettysburg's margin to 37-36 at the close of the quarter. Lebanon Valley went into the lead early in the final period and then the score saw-sawed several times before the winning foul shot was made.

C. W. Miller and Gemberling paced the victors with 12 and 11 points, respectively. Gene Haas hit the hoop for 11 tallies for the Bullets.

Villanova Next
 While Gettysburg outscored its opponents 17 to 15 from the floor, Lebanon Valley actually won the game from the free throw lane, netting 14 of 19 tries.

The Bullets will attempt to get back into its winning stride Wednesday evening when they meet undefeated Villanova on the local court.

NEW PITT AIDE "T" SPECIALIST

Pittsburgh, Feb. 1 (AP)—Clark D. Shaughnessy's selection of Dr. Danny Fortmann, all-star guard of the Chicago Bears pro team, as an assistant coach convinces Pitt students their new coach will teach their football squad all the tricks of the famed "T" formation fast-breaking style of attack.

Fortmann, named Shaughnessy's aide Saturday, has had seven years' experience in "T" formation play with the Bears, several times champions of the National football league.

The new assistant will also serve as a resident physician at Presbyterian hospital. Fortmann said he had previously planned to give up his football career and would have been an assistant at the University of Maryland and a resident physician, had Shaughnessy remained there.

A football star at Colgate from 1933 to 1935, he entered the University of Chicago Medical school in 1936 and started his pro football career before graduating in 1941.

Shaughnessy has promised to name his other Pitt aides within a short time.

Father And Son Rival Coaches

Miami, Fla., Feb. 1 (AP)—Like father, like son—in this case, they're high school coaches.

Papa Eck Erditz came here last fall from Oshkosh, Wisconsin, to join the physical education staff and become basketball coach at Andrew Jackson high school.

Son Dick arrived recently to become assistant athletic director and coach at Edison High School.

Papa was one of the outstanding football, boxing and basketball referees in the midwest besides turning out top basketball teams at an Oshkosh high school.

Dick, just 22, was an outstanding football and baseball player for three years at Northwestern university, winding up in 1941 by being named all-Western conference quarterback.

Dick hopes to enter the Army Air corps as an aerial photographer but until he does, he'll concentrate on "Pop."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Baseball, they tell us, is America's national game. Anybody old enough to read is supposed to know all about it. . . . But don't tell that story to the boys who have to compile batting and fielding averages for the Class "D" circuits. . . . One of them was moaning in our ear the other day about the ignorance of official scorers in the very minor leagues. . . . "One guy complained all season about our weekly batting records," he said. "Then at the end of the season he sent in his sheets without any fielding figures. . . . They'll list only three total bases and no run batted in for a guy who hit a homer. We got one score that had Jones pitching a complete game, then three weeks later the scorer sent us a note 'Change Jones to Smith; Jones was traded before the game'." . . . This year's prize, our informant claimed, came from the North Carolina State league. The box was faultless down to the last two lines, which read: "Weather: Green and Jones; umpires—Fair and Warm."

ALPHABET SOUP
 When Clark Shaughnessy and a couple of other Maryland coaches visited Cumberland, Maryland, for a high school banquet recently, they encountered slippery roads in the mountains and needed eleven hours for the return trip. . . . "Shaughnessy is in a class by himself when it comes to expounding the 'T' formation," commented Gene Gunning of the Cumberland Times, "but he proved to be a mere novice at negotiating 'U' turns."

MONDAY MATINEE
 Sea Patrol, old Seabiscuit's eldest son, is now a three-year-old and is being readied for the races at Bay Meadows this month. . . . The American Hockey league is working up a red-hot feud. When Providence drilled on the Buffalo rink recently, the city billed Eddie Shore's Buffalo club $15 for use of the rink and Businessman Eddie passed the bill along. So Lou Pieri of the Reds promptly drew up a bill for $35 covering Bison workouts on the Providence rink. . . . Matchmaker Larry Atkins reports boxing is doing so well in Cleveland that he's planning weekly shows starting in March. . . . New York baseball fans could hardly believe their eyes when they read the Yanks had traded Priddy and Candioli to Washington for Zuber and cash. They thought Clark Griffith always was the guy who came up with the "and cash."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
 Kenneth Jones, Peoria (Ill.) Journal-Transcript: "Wonder if the same players who objected to several weeks' training in the torrid south will now object to March snowballs in the north."

SERVICE DEPT.
 Birdie Tebbetts, the shrill-voiced Tiger catcher, is putting in some special study on voice control in Officers' Candidate school in Miami to develop the deep and resonant tones required for issuing commands. But he says when the war is over he'll go back to his famous squawk. . . . When the Southwest conference approved freshman participation in varsity athletics, Navy Lieut. Herman Clark of the Georgia Pre-Flight school decided he had jumped the gun. He enrolled at Texas Christian the year the Horned Frogs joined the conference and a special ruling permitted Clark and other Pollywogs to compete that season. . . . Corp. Billy Maher, former Pennsylvania lightweight champion who is in charge of boxing for the 193rd Field Artillery at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, reports a turnout of 1,500 to 2,000 soldiers every time his outfit puts on a fight show.

Cancel Wrestling Match On Saturday
 Advised by Johns Hopkins university not to make the trip to Baltimore because of the condition of the roads, the Gettysburg college wrestlers failed to get into action Saturday afternoon for their opening match and the engagement was cancelled.

The Bullets are next scheduled to meet Haverford here Saturday afternoon. The Jayves will meet Mercersburg academy in a preliminary card.

CAGE LEADERS FACE CRUCIAL WEEK OF PLAY

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Making a quick trip around the basketball hoop:

BIG TEN
 Indiana and Illinois, both unbeaten in the league and tied for the top, return to action this week. Latest Hoosier victim was Purdue, 53 to 35.

SOUTHEASTERN
 Louisiana State was idle all last week but bounded into first place in the won-lost column when Alabama surprised previously unbeaten Kentucky Saturday, 41 to 32. Kentucky could move back into a tie for first tonight by winning at Vanderbilt.

PACIFIC COAST
 Southern California, called the best team in the school's history, already has clinched the coast conference's southern half crown while Washington is out in front in the northern race. The Trojans won from University of California at Los Angeles Friday for the 42nd consecutive time, 51 to 39, to take over the divisional throne occupied last year by Stanford.

EASTERN SECTOR
 Basketball resumes its high powered action, with 18 college games and 17 service camp tussles occupying New York city gyms in the next six days.

Dartmouth, toppled by Princeton Saturday, 44 to 39, begins its drive to regain the Eastern Intercollegiate league lead tonight at Columbia. Penn now is on top and visits Cornell Saturday.

New York university's all-winning five plays St. Francis of Brooklyn Wednesday in an important metropolitan test while Duquesne, another Eastern power, plays Geneva Saturday.

BIG SIX-MISSOURI VALLEY
 Big Six became strictly Kansas-Oklahoma affair as Sooners defeated Nebraska, 56 to 32, Saturday night. The Oklahomans, now tied for second behind Kansas, are at Iowa State tonight and may find the going difficult. Creighton has its biggest Missouri Valley conference test Friday when it invades Oklahoma A. M.

SOUTHERN
 Duke climbed into second place behind George Washington with victories over North Carolina State and Wake Forest last week while the colonials were idle.

SOUTHWEST
 Texas, surprise leader, collides with Corpus Christi fliers, unbeaten in four tussles with conference teams, in charity game Wednesday night.

ROCKY MOUNTAINS
 Wyoming and Brigham Young top eastern and western halves of Rocky Mountain Six conference with former showing most power last week.

SPORT SHORTS
 Philadelphia, Feb. 1 (AP)—The five regulars on the St. Joseph's college basketball team here now are being called the "Iron men." They played without a substitution in beating West Texas State college, 65-52, on Saturday night.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Leslie Mann, former major league outfielder credited with making baseball a part of the Olympic games program, has enlisted for war work in the field with the United Service organizations. His first assignment will be as a director of a mobile club operating the southeastern seaboard.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The national figure skating championships will be held at Madison Square Garden March 8 under the auspices of the skating club of New York and for the benefit of the American Flying Service foundations.

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—The Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, commonly known as the IC4A, today mailed entry blanks for its 22nd annual indoor track and field championships to be held in Madison Square Garden March 6. War-time regulations adopted by the IC4A will permit competition by freshmen in all 13 events so the games committee has voted to eliminate the freshman medley race.

Chicago, Feb. 1 (AP)—A good hitter will hit no matter if he is playing in sun light or floodlight, the American League Press Bureau reported after digging through 1942 box scores.

Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, who topped the league batting for the second straight year, clipped a .485 average in 33 times at bat under the arcs. His day job was 348.

Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees batted .395 in 43 games after dark and .295 in the days.

Oklahoma City, Feb. 1 (AP)—There's no shortage of cowboys, and

Says Willie Pep Greatest Featherweight Since Artell

New York, Feb. 1 (AP)—Last Friday night, James Joy Johnston didn't show up in Madison Square Garden, and since Mr. Triple-J had been around for days shilling for Wee Willie Pep over Allie Stolz, the boys thought he stayed away in fear of what was going to happen to Willie that night.

It turned out, however, that Pep punched the ears off Allie, and today, James Joy phoned to say he was absent because a cold prevented him from talking.

Now that he can whisper loud enough to rattle the windows again, the derby hat wants it strictly understood he not only thinks Wee Willie is good—but that he's just about as great a featherweight as has come down the pike since Able Abe Attell ambled out of California. That would put Pep above fellows like Tony Canzoneri and Henry Armstrong and Kid Chocolate, who were pretty fair country clouters. But Jimmy insists, Jimmy should know. After all, he's been around almost as many years as Florida has had grapefruit.

More than a handful of the old timers tell you that during Abe's 15-year run from 1900 to 1915, he was the greatest fighter, pound for pound, who ever lived.

"But I really mean it about this 20-year-old Connecticut kid," insisted Johnston. "After all, he's won 59 straight fights, and no one else ever did that. What's more he can do just about everything the best of 'em could."

"The main thing about him is that, like those other greats, he can make an opponent fight to suit his style. Remember the night he won the featherweight championship (New York version) from Chalky Wright in November? He was a hit-and-run kid, but Chalky admitted that was the only way to beat him.

"Against Stolz, from what I hear, Willie was completely different—just walked in, banged away, and then outsped Allie. And that's just what Stolz doesn't like. Ever notice Pep's footwork? That jab and sidestep stunt he does makes other fighters look foolish."

"On top of that, he's also doing what every great fighter does. Now that he's won his title, he isn't just sitting back admiring it. He's going out and fighting anybody, any time, any place. He just beat one lightweight and now they're going to match him with Beau Jack, who's recognized as world champ here. Just listen to Pop—the kid's great."
